Tell us about yourself.

Hello, I am Suraj. I like working with startups and understanding novel technologies. That is my role - as Manager Entrepreneurship and Innovation - to scout for new startups and technologies. It is a question I ask myself if innovation can truly be outsourced. But given today's rapid pace of adopting new technologies, it becomes only necessary to have strategies, to involve external agents, as a catalyst to sustain innovation. So it comes down to finding the correct recipe, as always.

On a personal front, I like playing games on android or watching sitcoms, hanging out with friends over poker or ridiculously cool board games.

What do you want to take away from this experience?

Lots of experience, the platform to connect startups at the international level will give me in-depth exposure and also help build a bigger picture for myself.

Tell us one new thing you learnt about Switzerland after joining swissnex India.

I had heard about it before, but now I am seeing it closely in action - it is the efforts and energy that Switzerland puts into bridging the gap between education, research and innovation. Mind-blowing!
